THE TYPHOID SITUATION.

WITHOUT the slightest desire to occasion unnecessary alarm, The Herald wishes to call attention again to the Salt Lake City health situation Eighteen cases of typhoid fever were reported during the week that ended Saturday, making a total of twenty-five now being treated in the city. In all of August last year only twenty-five cases were reported. In other words, with the month just half gone we have as many cases this year as we had dur ing the entire month last year.

If this rate of increase is continued the situation may well cause serious apprehension. It has been shown that the water supply cannot be blamed for the existence of typhoid at this time. A few days ago samples of the water from all the sources of supply were analyzed. Not one of them contained any pathogenic bacteria. That is, not the contained bacteria that are calculated to cause disease, typhoid or any other kind.

A significant feature of the existing conditions is that probably half of the lyphoid cases are in a section of me Third precinct where water from flow-ing wells is used to the exclusion of city water. It may be that this water harmless. At any rate the city health of it made with a view to ascertaining have been using it will know how to him, tovern themselves.

But the typhoid is not altogether tem is affected. Many a case of 'nerves' could be cured by abolishing high-heeled shoes." The question is: What are the mere men going to do about it? They can hardly pass laws and ordinances prohibiting the sale, under serious pains and penalties, of high-heeled shoes, Nor can they prohibit the wearing thereof. That is, they may pass the laws if they want to, but the securing laws if they want to, but the securing of obedience to the laws is an entirely different matter. Whatever the results of the high-heeled shoe may be the women are going to keep right on wearing them until somebody sets the low-heeled fashion again.

If the women could only be made to the that was very long ago!

But that was long to complain Of whatsoe'er the Fates decree; Yet, were not wishes all in vain. I tell you what my wish, should be: I'd wish to be a boy again, Back with the friends I used to know; For I was, oh! so happy then—But that was very long ago!

understand that they don't look pretty in the strained and unnatural position they are forced to assume when they are wearing high-heeled shoes they might send them to the attic where the hoops and the enormous bustle are stored. But indeed and in truth the women are always charming, whether they wear high-heeled shoes or no shoes at all, and we shall decline to enter into even the semblance of a quarrel with them.

THE BRIGHAM YOUNG ACADEMY.

THE HERALD has received from the 1 Brigham Young academy at Provo a copy of the annual catalogue of that well known institution of learning. The catalogue is a volume containing 176 pages and is handsomely gotten up. It shows the affairs of the academy to be in a very flourishing condition. The roster of students contains 659 names which is in itself a high testimonial to the esteem in which the Brigham Young academy is held by those who best know it.

An interesting feature of the cataogue is a history of the institution, from its foundation in 1876 to the present time. The doors of the academy were thrown open to students Aug. 21, 1876, with that well known instructor Professor Karl G. Maeser, as principal. For fifteen years Professor Maecupied this position and he had the satisfaction of seeing it well started on its good work. He was succeeded by Benjamin Cluff, jr., the present ef ent president. Those who are well posted on educational affairs say there is no better institution of its kind in Utah than the Brigham Young academy at Provo The Herald congratulates it on its past successes and wishes it abundant prosperity in the future.

A BOSTON CALAMITY.

NOT ONLY THE GOOD PEOPLE of the fairly well known city of Boston but the entire country will learn with sincere regret that no less an individual than Reginald C. Vanderbilt has scratched the name of Boston as a port of entry from his books. In the great calamity that has come upon them, the citizens of Boston will have the deep sympathy of all whose hearts are wrung by stories of misfortune.

And, pining for the joys of youth,
I tread the old familiar spot.
Only to learn this solemn truth:

Yet here's this youngster at my knee,

To think I once was wise as he!
But that was very long ago.

wants far better and far more economically than private enterprise. Essentially, therefore, the city government is a labor-saving machine—an agency whose reason for being is the economy it affords. Even a bad machine saves us something. Let us make it a good machine, nay more, a perfect machine, and immediately its fields of usefulness will broaden in proportion to the saving it effects. Good government lies at the foundation of our industrial activity and of our personal comfort.

perstructure of private enterprise. Let us examine and compare our standards and our efficiency in public and in private enterprise. It is a generally accepted fact that a private corporation to be successful must be managed by those who build on a large scale and with an eye to the future. Can we say that our cities are managed by able and efficient men? Compare, on the one hand, the directors of our leading banks, railroads, telephone or manufacturing companies.

government good or bad, it is the only agency which can supply them. But the majority of our wants, as, for intermediately bridges the majority of our wants, as, for intermediately bridges. the majority of our wants, as, for instance, schools, water supply, bridges, libraries, hospitals, can be supplied in some measure by private enterprise. If the government is wisely and prudently administered, it can supply these wants far better and far more economically than private enterprise. Essentially than private enterprise. Essentially than private enterprise. advantages or disadvantages of loca-tion or due to the increasing complexity of life in large cities, should be known as accurately. The cost of mainte-nance of each department in every city of the country, having regard to the service rendered, should be so well known as to be axiomatic, and the expense in one city should be comparable with that in every other. We should know how much is saved to the con munity in every public service rendered and the cost of this service should be so well proportioned as to fall on those who effect the saving. But of all these matters we are profoundly ignormal.

In the keen competition of business we cannot afford to neglect any element of success or of economy. I submit that the administration of our city affairs is a part, and a fundamental part, of the administration of every private business in that city and that part, of the administration of every private business in that city, and that our failure to secure honest, thorough and scientific administration of city affairs; our failure to secure low taxation and efficient service, is a constant drain on our resources, the extent of which we underestimate only because we are families with it
